DETAILED ACTION

1. The preliminary amendment filed on March 3, 2003 has been entered.

Claim Objections

2. Claims 1-18 are objected to because of the following informalities:

Claims 1-18: "stabilization" should be -- stabilization--.

Claim 11, line 1: "A restraint system" should be -- A restraint device --.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.
4. Claim 15 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Re claim 15: The limitation, "a restraint device, which comprises a pair of restraint faces spaced apart to define a gap therebetween to received a section of an elongate structure, each restraining face.....during lateral deflection thereof," in lines 2-4 renders the claim indefinite and confusing because it is recited in independent claim 8. It appears to be redundant in limitation.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

6. Claims 1-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Foster et al. (US 5,290,127).

Foster et al discloses a subsea conduit support system including a series of restraints/support apparatus (see Fig. 1), the restraint including end restraints and intermediate restraints, each restraint apparatus comprising of a pair of restraint faces (207A, B) spaced apart to define a gap therebetween to receive a section of an elongate structure/subsea conduit (CM), each restraint face being configured to inherently control curvature of the elongate structure during lateral deflection thereof, each restraint face having a curved/circular continuous face, each restraint device further comprising a discontinuous face defined by a plurality of restraint zones which is defined by restraint columns (104, 109) embedded in the seabed or ground (see Figs. 3 and 6), the columns/legs (104, 109) being connected to one (104) to the other (109) to provide an integral restraint structure (see col.3, lines 24-68; col.4, lines 1-36).

7. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

8. Claims 9-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Broeder et al. (US 6,004,071).

Broeder et al. discloses a method and apparatus for installing elongate underwater structure including a restraint apparatus comprising of a pair of restraint faces (47) spaced apart to define a gap therebetween to receive a section of an elongate structure/pipe, each restraint face being configured to control curvature of the elongate structure/pipe during lateral deflection thereof (see Fig. 3), each restraint face having a curved/circular continuous face (see Figs. 4-6) (see col.4, lines 16-67; col.5, lines 1-67; col.6, lines 1-10).

Priority

9. Acknowledgment is made of applicant's claim for foreign priority under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d). The certified copy of the priority documents have been received in this national stage application from the international Bureau (PCT Rule 17.2 (a)).

Conclusion

10. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Other references disclose a pipeline anchor assembly, a pipe restraining device and a pipe support frame.
